Staple Food Prices Fixed By Committee

Fair retail prices, which the consumer should pay for staple foods in June, have been determined by the food price committee, which was recently appointed by the city of Janesville. Variation in retail price is due to difference in brand and quality of goods. These prices are fixed on a credit basis and a reduction of 2% should be made on all purchases for cash of one dollar or more.

Any suggestions or complaints, with full particulars, should be addressed to County Federal Food Administrator, 205 Jackson Bldg., city.

The list of prices is given below:

WAR PROBLEMS.

History studies will remember that the German war of 1870 was decided by the battle of Sedan. The French army was surrounded and compelled to surrender. That is the kind of thing that drives the working man to do his duty. But it is a different situation in 1918. In 1917 the entire French army included but 350,000 men. Now our allies have at least 2,500,000 in France.

The one chance in sight for any such complete defeat lies in pushing the English back through the Channel. The fact that the Hun did not attack at this one point, where a real success might seem possible, would indicate that they did not dare to. It confirms the belief that at this vital point the English and French have fully adequate forces.

Believing the allies back thirty-five miles where they have open country back on them, makes no progress toward surrounding them. The attacking party loses more men, though it may make up for that by capturing guns and other supplies.

The only thing to worry about such an advance is the fear that they might get out of some important depot of supplies. But it does not seem probable that our allies would have any considerable portion of their munitions near enough the line to be in danger of capture.

Arm chair critics blame the English for not taking the offensive, and to the Germans what is being done to the English and French. But as the Germans, by reason of Russia's defection, must quit the English and French by this time, this would be a hazardous gamble now.

No doubt the Hun is one or two more big drives of the same kind this summer. But by September 1, the American troops will have made up the losses of our allies. The Hun will have had no means of filling their gaps.

OUR DIARIES.

Certainly "our diaries" for we have numerous Rock county boys in that branch of the service, are more than making good somewhere in France. The land and sea fighters of the United States have again demonstrated that they can be depended upon to "deliver the goods" when called upon to do so. They will not stop fighting until told to, and while they are fighting they will teach the Germans that this nation is not one bit "too proud to fight" when the time comes.

Right behind the marines and beside them on the firing line are our Rock county boys. They are doing their own "individual bit" and doing it like men. And behind them are more Rock county men ready to back them up when the times are opportune. Then behind these first two lines we will find our boys again at the seaports waiting transportation to the battle lines, and again at the training camp filled with enthusiastic young men merely waiting an opportunity.

Take a step further back and you will find those waiting call under the draft, a healthy lot of citizens, and the young men just registered. Taking it all in all Rock county is in a position to win, and win we will. Rock county men can make a proper impression upon the foe when the time comes. This is the war of ages and the war for democracy.

NO CARNIVALS.

Let us hope there will be no more carnivals permitted in Janesville—at least for the duration of the war. The city does not need them. The one held this past week has added nothing to the lustre of the city as an entertainment center and with the present demand for money for other lines of actual expenses and necessities carnivals are a waste of valuable time and money.

On my advance agent for a carnival company recently made the statement that he expected to have his shows here fourth of July week. When asked why he answered: "Do you want to sit on your hands and think those German airplanes are going to drop bombs on you?" No, we do not, but we do not want a carnival company—no matter under what auspices it is brought here—to come and drop "bums", even if we have to sit on our hands.

Carnivals are not elevating, not educational, not really entertaining. They are nothing like a circus or a theatrical performance or even an instructive moving picture show. They cater to a fleeting element and exact their toll without really furnishing entertainment in lieu of the money expended. Let us have no more of them.

GRADUATION WEEK.

Even in the period of "war's alarms" we must not forget that this is the most momentous week in the lives of many of our young citizens. It is graduation week and hundreds of young boys and girls this nation over are finishing their school work and making plans for the future life's work in the grim school of necessity. Many have not waited for this week of weeks, but have gone to the front of the present life's opening as soldiers in the great army and navy this nation has. Here at home are many young people who finish their school work, some never to take up books again as a student, after four years of work in the high school. It is a week of weeks for them. One of thrills and expectation and we must not be asleep to the demands made upon us at this time, nor the responsibility of the nation whose children are to finish an epoch in their educational career. This is graduation week, to keep well in mind that your congratulations are due those who have successfully passed the year's test and gone into a higher grade or finished their school work. Some will go to universities or colleges, but the majority will settle down to the toil of life and within a few short months we may find them in the khaki of Uncle Sam. All honor to them all.

THE FUTURE.

With the installation of an industry, such as is designed by the General Motors Corporation, there will be many changed conditions in Janesville. Within the immediate future, it means a bigger and greater Janesville and adds responsibility for the governing power. The honor paid the city through the efforts of J. A. Craig and his associates by selecting this city as the home for the new industry, is very great. Many states and numerous communities have offered various inducements to attract the new industry that is bound to help revolutionize farm industry of the world over. The future has much in store for Janesville. The added responsibility comes at a time when war conditions have increased the difficulties of every community. Knowing Janesville's record in the past no fear need be expressed that it will fail to rise to meet the emergency as it should be met when the time comes. Meanwhile let us prepare for the day when this occurs so as to be ready to meet new conditions as they arise.

There should be some organization created for the entertainment of the strapping, or at furlough. There should be a headquarters where these young men can go and rest and enjoy themselves. A center point where they can come and instruction as to the city and what to see and what to do. Such a plan is now contemplated, but let us have action. Meanwhile each Sunday sees hundreds of Camp Grant boys here wandering aimlessly around. Let us have some recreation for them, some entertainment, some place to go, and something for them to do to relieve the monotony of camp life.

In striking out German from the list of studies in the Janesville high school and recommending to the city council that they rescind the action of the charter that requires it, the members of the board have hit at the heart of the whole situation and the null and void of the charter is suggested. It is safe to say, as it is a sole question of loyalty and no one questions the loyalty of any member of the council.

The high school cadets were one of the initial organizations of their kind in the state. Now the city council has recognized their existence and the school board has recognized them and the company next year, conducted under the auspices of the officers of Company G of the 8th Reg. Inf., promises to be one of the best in the state.

There is no question but there is going to be a strenuous campaign on for the congressional nominations in this state and loyalty is the one and only issue. No excuses or half-way promises are going to get by the voters this year.

Present indications are that we are going to have a wonderful small grain crop this year. It is one of the blessings that nature gives us. Meanwhile continue to conserve the present supply until we have the new crop.

The plan to open the play grounds in the city for the summer is a wise one and has the support of every citizen. They are essential to the future training of our boys and girls and it is money well expended.

Who's Who In Today's News

ALEXANDER P. KERENSKY.

Alexander P. Kerensky, scheduled by cable news to visit America in the interest of the Russian people, is a spectacular world-figure produced by the revolution which dethroned the czar.

"Russia's man of the hour," name given Kerensky during his brief, turbulent reign, rose in a few months from obscurity to an international figure.

As premier he exercised the powers of a dictator in his futile efforts to bring order out of chaos and put faith in the Russian soldiers.

Born in Simbirsk, European Russia, thirty-six years ago, and educated for the law, he was elected to the duma in 1913. He was under police surveillance for several months and the revolution which unseated the czar prevented Kerensky's arrest.

Russia's provisional government came into existence in March, 1917, through an agreement between the executive committee of the duma and the council of workmen and soldiers. The new government was composed mainly of representatives of the Liberals. Kerensky was the only Socialist in the cabinet of provisional ministers. He became minister of justice and afterward held the title of minister of marine and war.

At the outset he appealed to the masses, calling the people he addressed "comrades," and asked them if they believed in him. He said there should be "no place for vengeance" in the new government.

In June, 1917, he visited the battle front and encouraged the soldiers. Under his influence a big Russian offensive was launched in Galicia. He was hailed as "the strong man" — likened to Napoleon, Mirabeau and Danton of the French revolution.

Gen. Korniloff was commander-in-chief of Russia's armies. He demanded that he be given supreme power. He and Kerensky became bitter enemies. Kerensky ordered Korniloff to quit the army and appointed a new commander. Civil war was proclaimed in Petrograd and Kerensky personally directed military operations against Korniloff's suppression of a rebellion.

Like a flash, Nov. 8, 1917, the provisional government was overthrown by radicals headed by Nicolai Lenine, a pro-German, who used as his principal tool a man named Braunstein-Trotsky. Kerensky was compelled to leave Petrograd.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest.

Full many a flag the breeze has kissed,
Through ages long the morning sun
Has risen o'er the early mist,
For flags of men to look upon,
And some were red against the sky
And some with colors true were gay,
And some in shame were born to die,
For flags of hate must pass away.
Such symbols fall as men depart,
Brief is the reign of arrogant might;
The vicious and the vile at heart,
Give way in time before the right.

A flag is nothing in itself;
It but reflects the lives of men
And they who dived and toiled for base,
Went out as vipers in a den,
God clears the sky from time to time
Of every tyrant flag that flies,
And every brazen badge of crime
Falls to the ground and swiftly dies.
Proud flags are moldering in the dust,
Proud flags of ages past are gone,
Only the symbols of the living
Have lived and shall keep living on.

So long as we shall serve the truth;
So long as our honor stamps us fair,
Each man shall pass into its youth,
Old Glory proudly flying there!
But if we fail our splendid past;
If we prove faithless, weak and base,
That age shall be our banner's last.
A fairer flag shall take its place.
This flag we fling into the sky,
It is but an emblem of our hearts
And when our love of freedom dies
Our banner with our race departs.

Full many a flag the breeze has kissed,
Full many a flag the sun has known,
But none so bright and fair as this!
None quite so splendid as our own!
This tells the world that we are men
Who cling to manhood's ways and truth;
It is our soul's great voice and pen,
The strength of age, the guide of youth,
And it shall ever hold the sky
So long as we shall keep our trust,
But if our love of right shall die,
Our flag will sink into the dust.

Trotzky went from a $12 job on the East side, New York, and a four-room flat to the presidency of the executive committee of the Bolsheviks, November 11, 1917. Kerensky, with 200,000 faithful soldier adherents, attempted to capture Petrograd, but failed.

Kerensky is a man of medium size and height, with close-cropped brown hair, and a face which in repose has a strained embittered expression, but which lights up manfully, with a broad, generous smile.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK AT MILTON COLLEGE

Milton, June 10.—Commencement week at Milton college opened most auspiciously Friday evening, June 7, with the annual sermon before the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations, preached by the Rev. Frank C. Richardson of Milwaukee. Mr. Richardson is an honor alumnus of Milton college, who is now pastor of one of the most influential M. E. churches in Milwaukee. He will receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity next Thursday from his alma mater.

The service Friday evening was held in the S. D. B. church at Milton. The music was rendered by the college quartet and others. The presidents of the two associations conducted the service. "Drawing Near to God," emphasized the supreme importance of religion as a factor in individual, social, and national life. The message set the keynote for a commencement week that is marked by seriousness of purpose and a reverent spirit that is suited to the present crisis in the life of our nation's young people.

On Saturday evening, Dr. E. Stillman Bailey of Chicago delivered an interesting lecture in the college gymnasium on "The Sand Dunes of Lake Michigan." Dr. Bailey is an honored graduate of Milton college and is well known as the dean of the Hahnemann Medical college in Chicago. He is the author of a valuable book on the "Sand Dunes of Indiana," and his lecture was illustrated with pictures taken by himself in the prosecution of his scientific studies of these fascinating natural phenomena.

Dr. Bailey is an ardent lover of nature in manifold aspects and is a very interesting speaker.

On Sunday evening President Daland preached the baccalaureate sermon in the S. D. B. church. The music was furnished by college students. Pastors of Milton churches took part in the service. President Daland selected as his theme, "The Freeman of Today." He treated the subject from a historical point of view, closing with a practical application of the philosophical and spiritual freedom of the present age.

The graduating class numbers but three persons this year, two of whom are women. This condition is principally due to the war. Milton has six graduates in her service flag, one gold star in memory of Ensign Perry, the aviator, who lost his life in the fatal accident to his sea-plane. On Thursday, in addition to the bachelors' degrees, the degree of Doctor of Divinity will be conferred on three clergymen: the Rev. Channing A. Richardson, of Sacramento, Calif.; the Rev. Frank C. Richardson of Milwaukee, and the Rev. Edwin Shaw, of Plainfield, N. J. Mr. Shaw was for fifteen years a professor in Milton college, and was for a short time acting president, at the death of the late President Whitford before President Daland became president of the college.

Personal.

Carpenter's Mattie and W. Crumb came up from Great Lakes and spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Crumb.

Dr. E. S. Bissley of Chicago spent Sunday here.

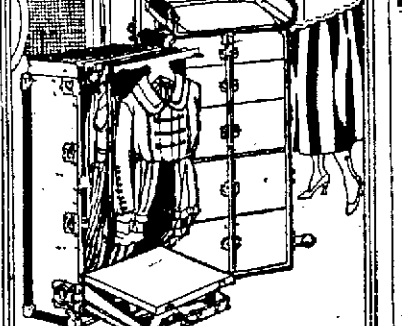

Miss Marion Ingham of Wayne, Ind., is here for commencement week. Dr. D. Bliss returned to Wapawato, Saturday.

Tuesday evening, June 11th, the joint literary societies of Milton college will present "The Tempest," as a part of the commencement exercises. This play is very rarely given by amateurs, but under the management of an efficient director, it promises to be a success.

Miss Eleanor Wilbur of Madison spent the week-end with her parents.

cinating natural phenomena. Dr. Bailey is an ardent lover of nature in manifold aspects and is a very interesting speaker.

On Sunday evening President Daland preached the baccalaureate sermon in the S. D. B. church. The music was furnished by college students. Pastors of Milton churches took part in the service. President Daland selected as his theme, "The Freeman of Today." He treated the subject from a historical point of view, closing with a practical application of the philosophical and spiritual freedom of the present age.

The graduating class numbers but three persons this year, two of whom are women. This condition is principally due to the war. Milton has six graduates in her service flag, one gold star in memory of Ensign Perry, the aviator, who lost his life in the fatal accident to his sea-plane. On Thursday, in addition to the bachelors' degrees, the degree of Doctor of Divinity will be conferred on three clergymen: the Rev. Channing A. Richardson, of Sacramento, Calif.; the Rev. Frank C. Richardson of Milwaukee, and the Rev. Edwin Shaw, of Plainfield, N. J. Mr. Shaw was for fifteen years a professor in Milton college, and was for a short time acting president, at the death of the late President Whitford before President Daland became president of the college.

CONVENES AT ST. PAUL

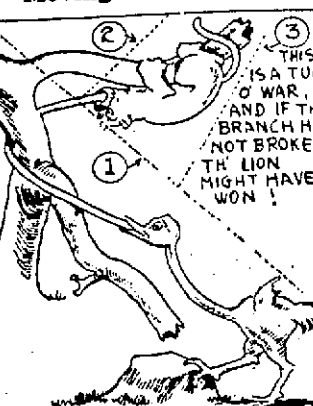

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Paul, June 10.—With speakers sounding a warning to German military chiefs and asserting anew the loyalty of organized labor to the American government, the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor convention got under way here today with several thousand delegates and visitors being present.

James Clancy, vice president of the local trade and labor assembly, opened the meeting and introduced George W. Dawson, secretary of the Minnesota Federation of Labor, who acted as temporary chairman. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor Julius A. Schmah. A response was made by President Daniel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor. Officers of state and city labor organizations also spoke. Preceding the opening of the convention there was a parade through the downtown streets, in which soldiers and sailors and state labor officials participated.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl fifteen years old and am keeping company at present with a boy eighteen. He does not live here and he has promised to write to me. I have only been out with him three times, but he is very nice and I think a lot of him. My parents do not object to my going with him and they also like him. Should I go with him steadily if he continues to be nice and cares for me?

(2) He is buying a motorcycle. Should I go riding with him if he asks me? (3) When writing to him should I use the salutation "Dear Fred" or "Dear Friend"?

ANXIOUS.
(1) You are about three years too young to go with boys at all. A girl should not go with one boy exclusively until she is in her twenties.

(2) Whether you should go riding with him or not depends so much upon the kind of friends you are. If you go with such other and think you are in love, you should not go motorcycle riding, but if you consider yourself merely a little girl and go for a short ride around the neighborhood, it is all right. If you are not in love, it is all right if your parents do not object.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been corresponding with a soldier for the last six months. I never met him, but we exchanged pictures and think a great deal of him. The friend who gave him my address also speaks very highly of him.

In the last few letters he has been asking me if I would marry him. Do you think I would do right by accepting the proposal? I am eighteen years old. It is a very serious matter to become engaged. Do not consider his proposal until you have had an opportunity to know him personally and for a long time to become familiar with his tendencies which would not reveal themselves in correspondence. Some people are very clever letter writers and not a bit attractive in person.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am undecided whether or not to attempt making an engagement with a girl who has treated me royally when I am in her company. I have taken her out several times and she acts as though she likes me and approves of my company, but when I ask her to go out with me she seems reluctant. She always invites me to come to see her, but when I ask her to go out she answers in the negative and asks me to call again. She did this twice and has ceased extending invitations to her.

What would you do in these circumstances or recommendations? I would ask her again. It may be that the two times she refused to go out with you she had very good reasons to do so and would gladly accept invitations to come again but continues to invite you to her home, ask her why she will not accept your invitations to go out.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been married for seven years. My husband is so indifferent to me since my baby is so young. I have one child five years old. He is so unkind to me and the baby that I sometimes think I will get a club when he is asleep and beat him. I wish you would advise me to do in this case. I. If your husband is cruel to you, you are entitled to a divorce. Consult a lawyer. He will know the circumstances and can advise you just what will be best to do.

SIDE TALKS

RUTH CAMERON

The Account Book Habit.

"Whatever you do, don't get the account book habit," said a young married woman told me the other day, "was my mother's advice when we were married."

It sounded incredible. But it sounded quite the contrary, when having enjoyed my astonishment, she went on to explain her statement. It seems that her mother did not mean that most desirable habit of keeping an account of what one spends one's money for. She meant rather the habit of keeping a mental account book for the faults and mistakes and failures and offenses of his or her mate. From day to day she would remember just down items in his little mental book against the unconscious creditor, and then some time in a crisis of temper or resentment would read over the items or points out the staggering total.

Every Six Months She Opens Her Account Book.
A husband once told me that his wife would have these days of reckoning just about once in six months. Then she would open her mental account book and call him to account for little things he had said or done months ago and which he had not the slightest idea at the time had annoyed her.

"I would far rather she would speak about a thing at the time and get it over with than to have her mind for months until it seems like something big to her," he said. (One cannot help wondering if he would really like to have her speak out very time. It is always so much easier to hear the alternative evil.)

She Forgets They Were Gifts.
Another trick of the account keeper is to keep a mental reckoning of all the small gifts of service and sacrifice he or she has made for the other, and then to forget they were made as gifts, and to present a bill for them.

There are people who enrage one into this unworthy state of mind by their way of accepting. If a thing is a gift one expects gratitude. If one never gets gratitude can one be blamed for forgetting it is a gift? I started to blame the account keeper and here I am justifying her (I admit it is more apt to be her).

Not The Way To Happiness.
No, not justifying. Merely explaining. I do not want to encourage her by justification because I do not think that is the sign post to happiness in married life—or any kind of life for that matter.

Accounts like that are too petty. And the road to happiness and the road to peace is found by taking the turning that leads away from pettiness.

When you stop to think of it, what good do these account books do you? None whatever. They only number up your mind and heart. Then why not have a spring cleaning and just burn them up?

FOR WAR GARDENERS.
Here are a few suggestions to war gardeners. Treat potatoes for scab before planting.

Make a second sowing of peas, radishes, spinach and lettuce as soon as the first planting is out of the ground. The first planting of peas should be covered with about an inch of soil. If a heavy rain following planting causes the ground to form a crust over onion seed or small plants rake it with a rake.

A few breakfast radish seeds in the row will mark it so that it can be cultivated before the roots are up.

THE TABLE.
New Fish Loaf—Take two slices cod or halibut steaks, about two pounds.

Put the bottom of your baking pan put three slices of fat pork. On this place one layer of the fish, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Mix one cup of bread crumbs, little salt, pepper and one-quarter cup melted butter, pork fat or bacon fat, and spread over the fish slices. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and place three or four slices of fat pork on top. Bake about thirty minutes. Cover with the other layer of fish. Replace pork and brown in oven. Serve with drawn butter sauce to which you add a hard-boiled egg or a white sauce.

Rhubarb Sauce—Rhubarb sauce is good made by scalding the rhubarb in sugar with a little soda water; drain, add sugar and a very little water and tiny bits of orange peel for camouflage. Stew thick.

Taproot—Put one-half cup pearl tapioca to soak over night, add more if needed, cook until clear, add a tablespoonful sugar and a dash of vanilla. Also mix with fruit, especially peaches. Eat cold with sugar and cream.

New England Cornmeal Pudding—Take four quarts of milk, use the cream for the dressing by putting in sugar and nutmeg. Take about one quart of the milk, put in a bottle, add a teaspoon salt, the stir constantly until the pudding is boiling. Now add cornmeal, about like mush and cook about half an hour, stirring constantly, else it will scorch. The other three quarts of milk and thin the mush. Beat together one egg, one cup cooking molasses, one large tablespoon ginger and one large tablespoon nutmeg. Add to the mush. Bake about two hours and together. Bake about two hours and together. Bake about two hours and together. Bake about two hours and together.

With the cream sauce prepared as above.

Half of the ingredients can be used. In that case use the whole egg. Don't let the batter too thick or it won't be good.

Rice Pudding—One-half cup rice soaked two hours. One cup milk. One-half cup sugar. One-half teaspoon salt. One cup raisins.

Bake in hot oven till rice is tender. Serves four people.

FREE USE OF SLANG GETS WOMEN'S GOAT

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS).
Chicago, June 10.—Mrs. Howard Willett is out organizing a "Better American Speech" week, to begin October 27. The reason is, she says, that there is too much slang being spoken in America. It simply gets her goat.

"She says it is so bad that business men tell her they can't read the stenographers' shorthand and the most ordinary expressions. The girls don't know what they are talking about unless they use slang."

And the college boys—oh my! prize fight ring and the race track. Even the girls use it, too.

Mrs. Willett's taboo does not apply indiscriminately to all slang. You can use a perfectly good wielder of American and indulge in such expressions as "beat it," "cut it out," "over the top," "camouflage," "strafe," "lounge lizard."

But you are hopeless if you use these: "O you kind," "coco," "pips that" and "nut."

Anything new and bright is O. K. Here is the motto: Speak American, think American and you will be an American. Speak better American, think better American and you will be a better American.

Build a Cistern.

No cistern? Well, then, for the love of your wife, set a big barrel half-way in the ground under the leader from the roof and put a wire screen on it to keep out the mosquitoes. This will help some until you find time to build a real cistern.

The Daily Novelette

THE HIDDEN LISTENERS.
(Synopsis of preceding chapters.) She is a beautiful young lady, Lily Smoother, the fairest daughter of old Lord Smoother, the adder at the Zoo. Lily has many lovers, and such, but to one and all she is cold and distant. And while she is cold and distant, she receives their valuable gifts of gold, silver and precious cut glass, she haughtily refuses to say "yes" to any of them.

Yes to any of them. Some man is Hudson Bay, punk but his hair long, falling upon his shoulders, for, he it whispered, he has but one defect—a pair of enormous ears that stick out as though listening for something far away. They aren't pretty, so Hudson Bay covers them with his lovely long hair.

Lily, dearest, said the huckleberry, will you be mine? Hudson Bay into Lily's flower-like ear.

No, Hudson, your collar are too high," said Lily, regretfully, shouted Hudson, joyously, and he went home to do it.

"Sweetest Lily, will you marry me and be my wife?" Hudson asked again, that evening.

"I'm so sorry, Hudson, but your trousers are too wide and they flap in the breeze."

"That's easy to fix, my dew-drop, snow-pearl!" And again went Hudson Bay joyously, wending his way tailorward.

"Precious little jar of jam now will you become my lovely bride?" Hudson asked, this time sure of a happy answer.

Hudson, I've been thinking it over and I simply can't marry a man whose hair is so long. It is really a momentary lapse of judgment, but I must insist on a shorter hair."

"But angel-face, I am a piano tuner; a musician! I can't do piano of my long hair; my crowning glory; my divinity!"

"Very well, then I don't yours!" said Lily, haughtily.

In his pretty pink and white boudoir, Hudson Bay was standing before a mirror. His long, lovely hair was short and close to his skull. He was looking at his reflection with a stickler's tape. When this work was finished, he tilted his head from one side to the other and glanced approving at his reflection in the mirror.

"Here I am, all made up as you wish, honeycomb. My collar are low—my trousers are tight and my hair is short. Now will you be mine?" he asked, expectantly.

"Oh, Hudson, darling, you are a great big brute. Hudson gave a great big roar and bursted and his big ears sprang out in their position. "Monkey!" cried Lily, indignantly.

And, overcome by emotion, she staggered out of the room and fell weeping into her step-mother's arms.

(The end.)

When a man and wife stop at a hotel, the husband registers for both, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown.

Anxious: When called upon a young lady a gentleman will not arrive before eight o'clock and takes leave before eleven. If he takes a box of candy, he should present it to her as soon as he takes off his coat for a young man to kiss a girl good-night, unless he is engaged to marry her.

School Girl: Do not imagine that because your friend has not confided all her new interests and plans to you, she thinks any less of you. Her faith in you is not shaken. Because you possess her affection, you cannot expect to know every minute of her life holds. Instead of being an angel friend, whose love will last through separation, silence, and the demands of a full active, absorbing life, you will become a selfish, self absorbed people demand unceasing devotion of their friends. If people only understood that intimacy leads to disillusionment.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM HART, M.D.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. HART, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

THE PREVENTION OF HEART DISEASE

Cardio-vascular degeneration (heart artery wearing out) is now the most popular and fatal of all diseases in this country. Quoting U. S. Government statistics of 105,203 deaths from heart disease in 1916 among the "regretted" of the population, Dr. T. B. Hartzell of Minneapolis asserts that heart disease is 90 per cent infection caused by a strain of Streptococcus which enters the human mouth. We think Dr. Hartzell's estimate is far off like 90 per cent, for probably one of every two deaths is caused by heart disease other than infection. But even if it is only ten or fifteen thousand people annually in this country succumb to heart disease, that is a large number of people who die from the effects of such disease, that many more thousands are made inefficient by such disease. For the majority of people with heart disease are unaware of the nature of the disease. They are simply being put out of their minds by the heart, and everything but the heart; indeed they do not generally consult a doctor, unless some accidental or intermittent illness makes it necessary.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Bright's Disease Fifty-Three Years. I am a Confederate. Fitz Lee's Brigade, 3rd Virginia Regiment. Was crippled the day before Stewart was shot from under me and being trampled upon. Was discharged after four years' service, because of chronic nephritis (Bright's disease). But I am now 81 years old and still alive.

Which suggests that there is a way to live with Bright's disease. Please tell me what serious carbonate is, whether it is harmful, and what it is used for. (Mrs. A. B. D. P.)

ANSWER—Have your eyes carefully examined by an oculist. Defective vision may be a cause of the head. Anemia may be a cause of the head. I know of no exercises for such condition.

Good Salts for Bilious Liver. What kind of salts would you advise to take for a bilious liver? (Mrs. F. E. W.)

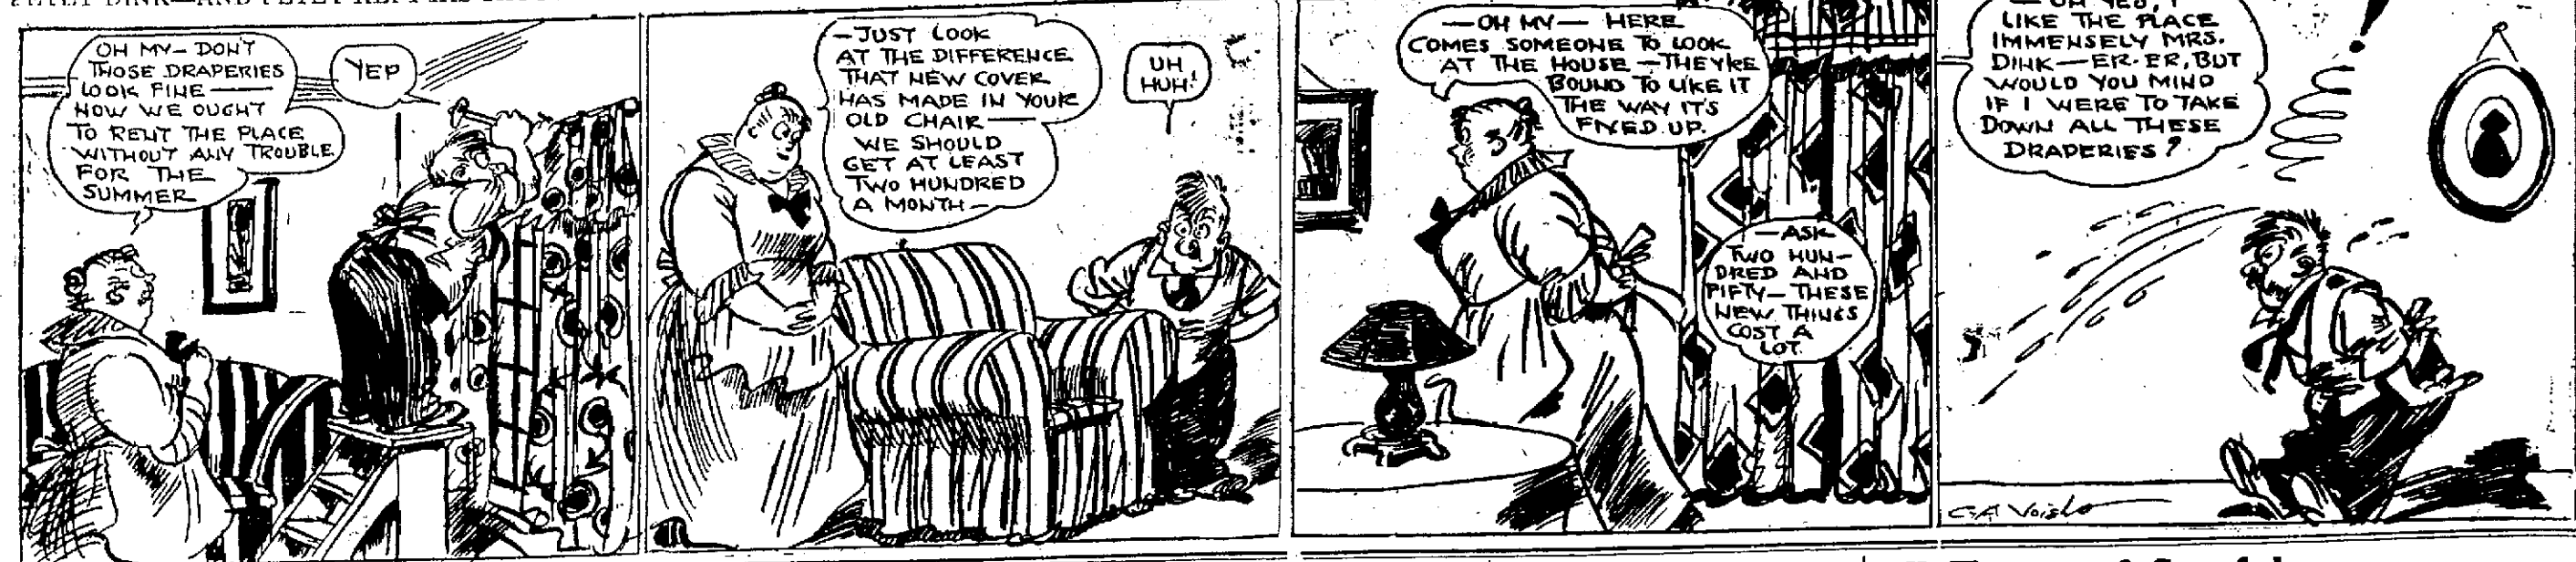

ANSWER—Epsom salts, six each night and morning.

Paradox. No word upon the lips of humanity would be more true today than the paradox "what I gave I have," for the creative force grows in proportion as it is generously expended and, with life itself, dwindles as it is eked out and repressed.

Gray Hair. Gray hair is the result of a deficiency of the blood. It is not a disease, but a symptom of a disease. It is caused by a deficiency of the blood. It is not a disease, but a symptom of a disease. It is caused by a deficiency of the blood.

The moral for this is obvious: Have a good, dentist—and a good dentist conducts no bargain sales.

In the middle of the great cedar swamp near Little River Aunt Deel got out the lunch basket and I sat down on the hazy bottom between their legs and leaning against the trunk of a tree, I ate my lunch. I had a good appetite and my lunch consisted of fried cakes and bread and butter and maple syrup and cheese. The road was a straight alley through the evergreen forest, and the grateful shade covered us. When he had come out into the sunlight by the Hale farm both my aunt and uncle complained of headaches. What an effect the sun had on their health! The doughnuts and cheese and sugar, especially if they were mixed with the idleness of a Sunday. I had a headache also and soon fell asleep.

The sun was low when they awoke me in our dooryard.

"Hope it'll be some time 'fore we feel the need of another sermon," said Uncle Peabody as Aunt Deel got out of the buggy. "I ain't felt so wicked in years."

I was so sick that Aunt Deel put me to bed and said that she would feed the pigs and the chickens. Sick as he was, Uncle Peabody had to milk the cows. How relentless were the cows!

Soon discovered that the Dunkards had fallen from their high estate in our home, and that Wright, Jr., had taken their place in the conversation of Aunt Deel.

CHAPTER IV
Our little Sunday Companion.
In the pathless forest we had a little companion that always knew its way. No matter how strange and remote the place might be, or how dark the night, it always found its way. By the light of the torch at midnight, in the darkness, I have seen it, and it seemed to be a spirit and not a tool.

The reader will have observed that my uncle spoke of the companion as if it were a thing and not a person. From the beginning in the land of my birth it had been a thing as familiar as the air and as necessary as the sun. Along our way were only stumpy stumps in the wilderness, with irregular curves and lines of thick timber—beech and birch and maple and balsam and spruce and pine and tamarack forever whispering of the unquenchable lands that rolled in great billowy ridges to the far horizon.

We were surrounded by the gloom and mystery of the forest. If one left the road or trail for even a short walk he needed a compass to guide him. That little brass instrument, its needle swinging and seeming to quiver with

The time has come when it is necessary to obtain a correct list of the boys who are in the service, both army and navy, from this city and Rock county. To do this means considerable work, but it is necessary and The Gazette is going to do it.

Last Christmas the County Council of Defense had occasion to send packages to the boys from this city who joined the colors and it was difficult to secure the addresses of a good many. There is no complete list and there are boys from Rock county represented in nearly every branch of the service.

"Are you an advocate of prohibition?" asked the lady with the Bryan-esque chin.

"Yes, ma'am," replied the individual with the irrigated, carmine colored lips.

"I advocate prohibition in its proper place."

"In its proper place?" What do you mean, sir?" she demanded, suspiciously.

"I mean, ma'am," he answered, "at least twenty miles from any human habitation, ma'am."

The Crowells were at dinner.

"I told Murray that I might drop in on them this evening," remarked Crowell.

"Oh, pshaw!" exclaimed Mrs. Crowell, impatiently. "You know I don't want to visit those Murrys, and I can't understand why you do."

"I don't," replied the husband. "I told him that, so that they might stay at home without fear of having them drop in on us."—Life.

"Yes," replied the grocer. "Haven't they been sent to you?"

"You sent me nine eggs," declared the irate customer, "and three poison gas bombs."

Keep Up the Good Work Send the Boys Tobacco

The following letters from the American Red Cross at Washington indicates that there is great need for subscriptions to the Tobacco Fund so that the boys over in France who are going through the hardships for us back here, may not be inconvenienced for a moment for the lack of tobacco.

The second letter from Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund shows the great good which tobacco is doing and abundant need for the continuance of the donations to the fund by the generous spirited people back home. A dollar or two a month will help keep the boys in tobacco and when brain and nerves are fagged as they are to the limit, we can well afford to go without ourselves and send over that dollar's worth of tobacco each month.

Send your donations to the Gazette and they will be forwarded and duly credited. If you wish to make it a regular monthly duty, you can do so.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS,
National Headquarters,
Washington, D. C., May 28, 1918.

The Janesville Gazette, Janesville Wisconsin.
Gentlemen:

We beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of May 25, which has been referred to this department by Mr. Gibson.

While the Quartermaster's Department has made arrangements to include tobacco in the soldiers' rations, the amount provided for which is 4 cigarettes or 4 of an ounce of tobacco daily, is far insufficient to cover the average soldier's need. Therefore we consider it most desirable to continue the supply of donated tobacco, as we have cable advice from our French Commission that the demand far exceeds the supply.

Our idea in writing you this letter of May 15th was to encourage these funds and to obtain the facilities of our purchasing department in buying the tobacco, as we had been advised by various newspapers that some of the tobacco companies who had been handling these funds, had discontinued them.

Very truly yours,
A. H. GREGG,
Assistant Director, Department of Foreign Relief.

OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND

GINGER UP! WE HAVE JUST BEGUN TO SEND SMOKES TO OUR BOYS IN FRANCE!

To the Smoke Editor,
Dear Sir:

The attached letter from the Red Cross will open your eyes. You and I and everybody connected with "Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund" have thought that we were doing a pretty good job in sending tobacco to our soldiers.

We have done a good job, but we have lost sight of the fact that our soldiers are pouring across the Atlantic in ever increasing numbers and that who we contributed a few months ago for the first few hundred thousand troops shrinks into small proportions when there are a million soldiers to be supplied.

General Manager Gibson, of the Red Cross, says that divisional bodies of our troops scattered detachments under training, as well as sick and wounded, all make irresistible demands for more tobacco.

The case of the American aviator who recently brought down two Hun machines in one day and then walked miles in the rain to get tobacco for himself and comrades, can be multiplied ten thousand times. The postalists that come to our office are heart rendering. Tobacco is the prime necessity of these trench-weary men.

done a tremendous lot. If so, visualize again the needs of these devoted American boys and plunge again, heart and soul, into the work.

If your paper is one of those that has only been handling this "smoke fund" in a half-hearted way, taking such contributions as come in and making no strong drive for smokes, for God's sake wake up!

The free nations are depending upon our army to win this war. We cannot win the war if the morale of our army is weakened; and the morale of the army will be weakened if our boys have been able to supply them with the past is not nearly enough to answer the urgent calls which we are receiving and will receive in the future. I give below some extracts from recent cables received from our commission bearing on this subject.

March 7.—Not over 300 cases tobacco in all our store houses. Last month distributed 1,000 cases.

March 15.—We have now distributed all newspaper tobacco and should have more. How much can we expect monthly?

March 28.—We need 175 cases newspaper tobacco a month for each army division. April 15.—Divisional detachments under training as well as sick and wounded, all make irresistible demand for more tobacco. Minimum needs 175 cases per month for each division. We must be able to supply such demand as we had this week when American aviator who recently brought down two Hun machines in one day walked miles in the rain to get tobacco for himself and comrades.

activities in this line to meet the increasing demand. The need is gaining as the number of our troops abroad grows. We sincerely hope that you can make your endeavors for proportionate and that you will be able to furnish us with a large quantity to equal the needs as indicated to us from abroad.

Very truly yours,
HARRY D. GIBSON,
General Manager.

The American Red Cross,
National Headquarters,
Washington, D. C., May 15.

The American Red Cross Commission in France is continually receiving requests from the commanding officers for supplying great quantities of tobacco for the use of the American Expeditionary Force in France. The efforts of your paper and other papers in the country to secure funds especially designated for the purchase of tobacco for our army abroad, has made it possible thus far for the Red Cross to respond to practically all of these requests for tobacco without it being necessary to expend any Red Cross funds for this purpose.

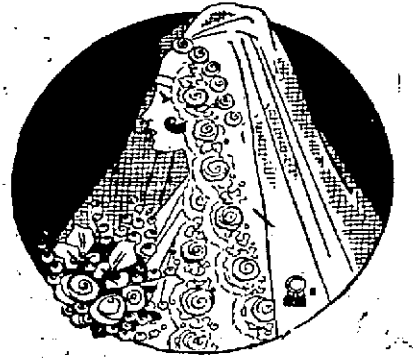

We have just received from our Commission in France word that the amount of tobacco which we have been able to supply them with in the past is not nearly enough to answer the urgent calls which we are receiving and will receive in the future. I give below some extracts from recent cables received from our commission bearing on this subject.

March 7.—Not over 300 cases tobacco in all our store houses. Last month distributed 1,000 cases.
